Student Life

Four soon-to-be seniors girls launch themselves from the pier at Saanae.

Summa This, Summa That

As the school days came to an end and the summer nights became longer, Godwin students had more time to do what they really enjoy doing—having fun. Whether at beach week or at Starbucks, these easily amused students had fun wherever they headed. The overpowering spirit of the two thousand students at Godwin not only spread through school but across the world. From Alaska to the Philippines to India to Israel, Godwin students traveled this summer and left their mark. Godwin-sanctioned trips such as the nineteen day journey to Europe and the chorus trip to Rome spread Godwin pride throughout the world. With so many various things happening in just two and a half months, this summer definitely proved to be out of the ordinary.

Going All Out

Beginning October 12th, students covered the school showing off their meticulously planned outfits to correspond with the spirit days. On Tuesday, students displayed their spirit as they wore their college attire. Strutting down the halls with their favorite clothes from past decades, students celebrated Decade day on Wednesday. For all of those who enjoy dressing alike, Twin day proved to be a hit on Thursday. Wrapping up the week, students donned their red and white attire from head to toe to represent school spirit. "I am glad that there was no clown day because I am scared of clowns," says senior Kevin Butnik. For the final smash, everyone piled into the bleachers at the pep rally to cheer on the cheerleaders, dance team, senior guys, and the teachers as they slid across the dance floor. Throughout spirit week, excitement ran wildly in the halls while students anxiously awaited "A Night With the Stars".

Roll in the Records

Take the most exciting weekend that occurs only once annually, prepare for it a month in advance, hype it up with a week long display of spirit, and you have homecoming. The administration claimed that the gym could not hold the whole student body for the pep rally, but the students responded it could, determined to uphold the tradition. The Junior Class's float displaying how they "Whip the Vikings" took first, paralleling the course of the game that followed. Shutting out the Thomas Jefferson squad in the first half, the players took a short break while Carrie Graham was crowned queen and Rebecca Minor maid of honor. The team closed out the Vikings with a decisive 72-0 victory. Coming back the following night, a record 1400 students poured into the gym for "A Night with the Stars." As sophmore Elana Light reflected, "A new experience, it connected us together in a festive mood."

Common Tales

What makes the Commons so special? Is it the huge columns that always get in the way of seeing things? Or is it the tables that no matter how early you arrive never have enough chairs? The Commons provides the students with a place to eat and offers a gathering place in the mornings. Whether the students congregate to catch up on who got whose screen name the night before or cram in a quick study session, the Commons grants students just the opportunity to do so.

Who can forget the Commons Cave? Hundreds of students use the cave to buy their daily doses of Shocktarts or Chews at the end of lunch or scramble to buy last minutes school supplies.

Fridays make the students think of the music played to add variety to the monotonous school week. On the side walls, stand vending machines available for student use. In the Commons many memories form. As these memories come and go, they always have a tale to tell.

The Great Outdoors

Different clubs began this year, including the creation of the Wilderness club, girl's lacrosse, and girl's field hockey. These clubs didn't actually have any school connection except for being formed by the students themselves. Nine students formed the Wilderness club over summer break, went on various trips to Shenandoah National Park. The group journeyed on three to six-mile hikes leading to waterfalls and other scenic venues.

Lacrosse started last spring with about five girls from Godwin. They traveled to a Chesterfield team after school, but since the trip took too long they decided to make their own Henrico team. This team now participates in the Henrico League.

Field hockey began in the Henrico League when another group of girls wanted to play a winter sport other than the normal ones offered. The field hockey team bore a strong resemblance to the lacrosse team in that they had the same coach and similar leagues to play in. Even without school support these teams made it on their own.

Journey Into the Unknown

Since our earliest years and the first words we so incautiously blurted out, kids of all ages have been questioned, "What do you want to be when you grow up?" Now it seems almost a blur, and some of us may wonder how we ever came up with such outrageous ideas. For a majority of students, the future that was always so anxiously anticipated is now just a short step away.

Unsurprisingly, most students have already set a strong foundation for a successful and prosperous future. Countless students were surveyed about their goals and aspirations for college and their distant career takeoffs. The results were significantly wide-ranged and no two students were thinking exactly alike. From freshman Steve Harcum's desire to become a chef, to sophmore Kellie Smith's ambition of becoming the CEO of Walt Disney, the diversity of Godwin students is definitely revealed in thier future plans.

Believe It

Or Not

Contrary to popular belief, Godwin High School is a very intriguing place. There are many random facts that the average student would never know and probably never even think about. Logically, if there are over 1,900 people crammed into one building for seven hours a day, five days a week, 180 days per year, there has to be more than schoolwork going on.

Each morning when you hear Jessica Thomas' voice over the intercom saying the pledge, do you realize that you have been rehearsing this statement ever since first grade? After twelve years of education, the average senior has said the pledge about 2,350 times.

Considering there are over 1,900 students here, there are only a total of1,800 desks in all of the classrooms. However, this does not include lab tabels and other chairs, so don't worry, everybody has a place to sit, even at lunch. Each lunch can hold 480 students, without difficulty.

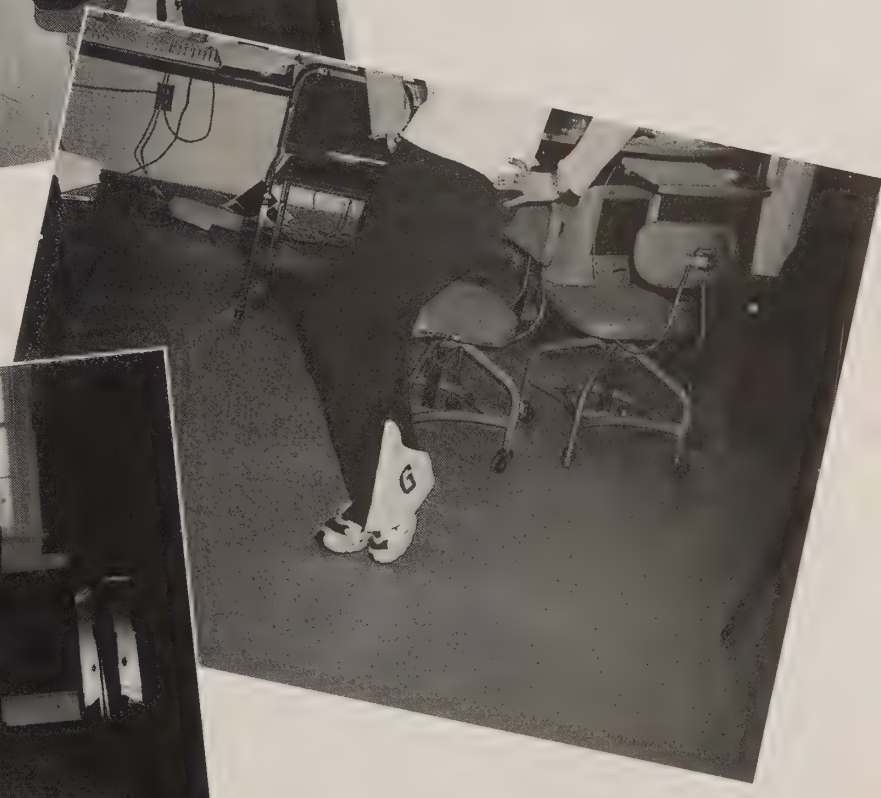
We all know that these high school years can be difficult and awkward. Trying to fit in, generalizations and stereotypes are made. Godwin students are known for wearing Abercrombie & Fitch. Although "A&F" is a popular brand of clothing, when 100 students were asked what he or she was wearing, the majority of the people were wearing Gap. Approximately 20% of the students surveyed were wearing a shirt or pants from Gap. Only 8% were wearing Abercrombie items. Eleven percent said that Old Navy was their favorite store, and American Eagle was close behind with 10%.

This is just the tip of the iceberg of the amazing facts floating around inside these walls. Some students think school is just a place to go when their parents wake them up at 7 a.m. and waste time. Believe it or not, students do more at school than waste time.

Between the senior lot and the driver's education lot, 539 parking spaces are available for students.

On an assembly day, the attendance office is much busier than this because there are an average of 200 early dismalls.

These red polyester bell bottom pants were worn first by the boys basketball team in the 1980's. some students are still wearing them today.



According to a recent survey, these bags portray the most popular stores students shop at.

Games On Board

Down by one chip for the sequence, five seconds left to describe a word, the buzzer has expired. What does this describe, an English class nightmare? It was the drama that unfolded at the newly popular board game parties. Board game parties took over as the hippest, most happening places to be on the weekends. Originated by a group of seniors desperate for a change in the weekend activities, these few risktakers began with such games as "Catch Phase." Over time, however, they experimented with more difficult games. Following in the foot steps of these pioneers, many others attempted their own "Game Parties" with some of the same success. None, however, could compete with the massive crowds that then began attending the original party. Those few who had taken a chance, risked so much for the enjoyment they found in board game parites, were now overcome with the idea. The tension grew each night as men and women rose and fell with the games they played.

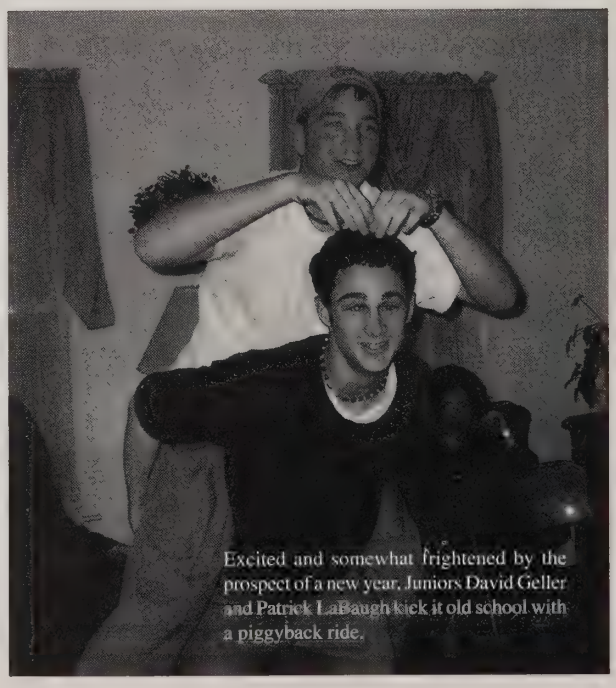
In The Year Two-Thousand

Everyone knows the stereotype: the ball languidly dropping, the fireworks fuses slowly creeping towards the awaiting gun powder. However, this New Year's Eve held much more for the world in general, and for students here in Henrico County.

Falling four days before the end of the longest winter break in recent memory, the changing of the numerals could only remind the students of the inherent change in mindset required by returning to school. As they partied hardy, or observed others go nuts on, the joy was bittersweet. Surely, this year, although not the start of a new millenium, but more importantly the chance to give the One and Nine digits a break, signaled an opportunity to start over.

And so it becomes that much more important to isolate this one night and to examine it purely for what it is. Whether partying late into the night, or rejoicing in the closeness of loved ones, the new year is here.



Excited and somewhat frightened by the prospect of a new year, Juniors David Geller and Patrick LaBaugh kick it old school with a piggyback ride.

Frigid Fun

As the bell rang on Friday, December the 17th, the sugar fed students made their way out of the building to enjoy an exceedingly two-week-long vacation. Kicking off the first weekend of winter break, some Godwin students traveled to the Hampton Coliseum for an amazing concert performed by the group Phish. Venturing out to shopping malls around town to fight the crowds for last minute gifts, some came in contact with crowded parking lots, picked over stock, and long lines. With traffic all around town, others decided to stay in the house relaxing, sipping on hot cocoa, or hanging out with friends.

The weather outside soon turned frightful as temperature rose all the way to the low 70's. All this heat did not stop some people from enjoying a chilling break though. Searching for snow and a place to enjoy the slopes, Sandy and Murph Halasz traveled to Nevada, Kelly and Holly Archibald traveled to Canada, and Chris Jones traveled all the way to Switzerland.

The Return of Spirit Week

Anticipation grew more each day. Students anxiously awaited the arrival of the Godwin vs. Freeman basketball game, the contest against the archrival. The SCA initiated a second spirit week in an effort to build excitement for the big game. The spirit days included days such as slipper day, mismatch day, recycle your homecoming attire day, and crazy hair day. Many of the days were new to Godwin, but they became instant favorites. Friday obviously the traditional red and white day, featured the pep rally where Godwin's first homecoming king, Sameer Vaswani, was announced along with his court. The crowd, as peppy as ever at the game, represented Godwin well with their red and white clothing, and their "Beat Freeman" t-shirts. Although the outcome of the game a 39-38 Freeman win dissappointed, the SCA's idea was an overwhelming favorite and is destined to become a tradition.

Leadership

NHS, BETA, club officers, publications, or members of any other school group all had something in common. To hold any office and staff position takes a lot of leadership, such as organizing and attending meetings, thinking of ideas to help the school, and setting a good example for fellow students to follow.

The class officers important jobs were not only to guide their class but also raise money to support their class activities. They worked closely with the class sponsors to get members of their class involved in as many activities as possible.

All club officers held many of the same responsibilities as class officers. They too raised money for their particular club and also took on the responsibility of recruiting new members. Leadership pulsated throughout the cardiovascular system of every student causing at times a gentle wheezing reminder that only through hard work can excellence be achieved.

Around the World in a Daze

This years Variety Show, put on by the Junior Class, was a complete success. Acts ranged anywhere from class skits to individuals singing and dancing. Everyone was nervous on Friday night, but Saturday night they were more relaxed.

Keeping up with the "Around the World in a Daze" theme, the Junior class fillers kept the audience entertained. Directors Lauren Kosteski and Lane Burgess made sure everything went as planned.

The Insain Breakers dazzled the crowd as they spun around on their heads . The bands Fat Karma, Kid Simpson, and Blues Dispatch gave everyone a taste of their musical talents. Brynne Donahoe sang "Foolish Games." Another song by Jewel was performed by Ginny Smith.

The Senior class, starring Josh Fink, ended the night with a laugh. The audience could hear the thoughts of the "soon-to-be" graduates as they walked across the stage accepting their diplomas. The thoughts ranged from being extremely nervous to food to thanking those that helped them along the way. The Seniors ended their act with the annual dance. "We are not professional dancers, as obviously seen, but we all had a blast doing it," said Kendall Martin.

The Sophomore class graced the stage once again with their acting abilities. The Freshman class made their first appearence in the Variety Show with a skit spun off of "Who Wants to be a Millionaire."

Other acts included the Dance Team who performed their version of several GAP commercials and Chad Hobgood who played "Angel Eyes" on the piano, the Giovanni Jugglers, and singers Kelly Bond, Sarah Lantz and Tyler Rackley.

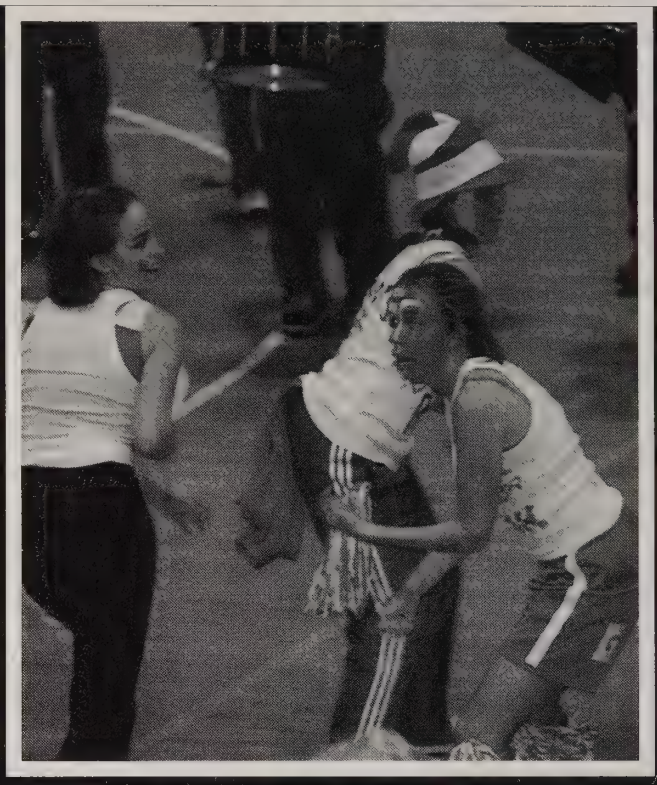
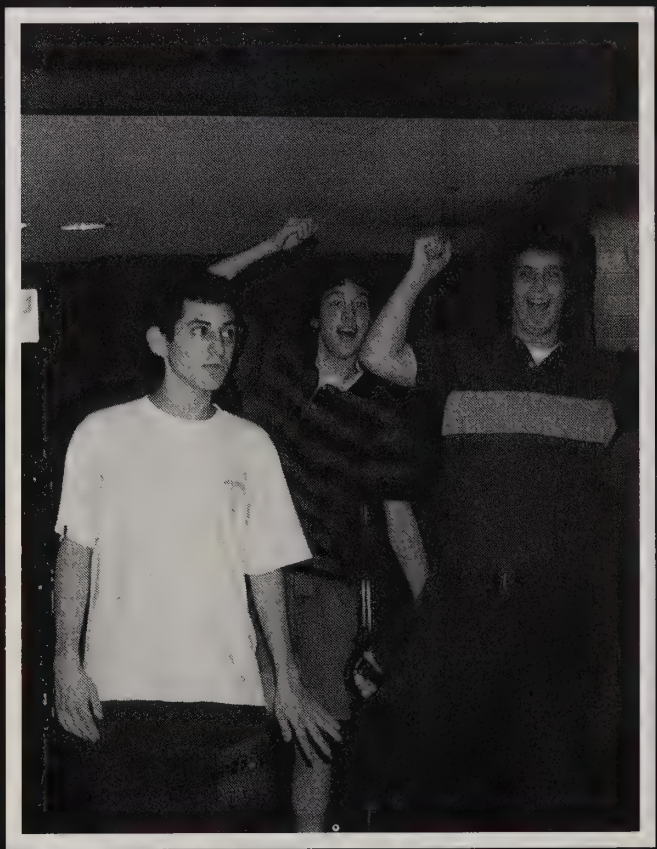
Class Councils

Coming into their final year, the senior class grew in size and spirit and the class council became more powerful than ever. They were led by President, Rebecca Minor, Vice President, Maria Munoz, Secretary, Mary Vrtis, Treasurer, Bryan Neider, and Historian, Niki Lustig. The officers united everyone together to begin the year with a relaxing bar-b-q. Afterwards they began working on an amazing Homecoming float following the theme of "Teeing off T.J." Following up the homecoming game activities, the officers and a few dedicated members of the senior class designed and decorated the gym for the Homecoming dance. Later in the year, the students united again for their next great project, their final variety show. In the expectation of graduation, they followed that theme in their performance and put on a skit to remember followed by a "well refined," dance demonstrating where their talent lied and also that they were willing to do just about anything for their class. Towards the end of the year, the officers worked hard to put together the senior banquet and the night was a success bringing the whole class together for one of the last times. In addition to the class council activities, one group of seniors took a memorable trip in honor of Governor Mills Godwin. In late February, representatives from the class officers to the NHS officers and many others took a trip to Suffok to Riddicks Folley to see the memorabelia of Governor Godwin. The leaders of the senior class represented the school well and learned all there was to know about the man whose name was given to our school.

Front: Caryn Lustig, Curt Scott, Nathan Ruiz, Evan Henck, Kristen Rushing, Elizabeth Law, Ezra Kazanoglu, David Smock, Maria Munoz, Brian Cave, Katie Cambell, Tim Fox, Niki Lustig, Bryan Nieder, Micheal Hoffer; Back: Kevin Butnik, Myo Thwin- mint, Grace Ahn, Jenny Hobgood, Carrie Graham, Sarah Vogt, Kendall Martin, Katie Bennet, Annie Romaine, Monica Trzcinski, Angie Deal.



Katie Bennet, Brianna Bellanti, and Carrie Turner show their senior spirit and dance in the Homecoming madness.



Bryan Nieder and Josh Fink put in their input as to what the senior dance should be while Kevin Butnik watches the girls dance.

Celebrating their senior year, these friends show spirit and lead the cheering crowd.

Senior girls practice hard for their final variety show.

Caught off guard, Grace Ahn is having more fun than it looks with friends, David Smock and Jenny Kerley.

Raheel Valiani shows his style as he mesmorizes Becca Minor and Sandra Park.

Dressed in their halloween attire, the senior class shows the school who has the most spirit at the pep rally.

Entering one of the most important years of a high school career, the junior class council decided to make this year one of the most memorable ever by participating in numerous activities. As the class officers, David Cooke, John Reynolds, Nate Lloyd, Andrew Kay, and Elizabeth Barron took the challenge to lead all of the class activites.

For 1999 Homecoming, the junior class council completed their first place float, Whip the Vikings, after many hours of hard-core work. As whip cream flew all over members of the council, juniors waved as the crowd cheered them on. Helping students to find their most compatible matches within the Godwin population, the junior class provided the Heart-to-Heart questionnaire. After answering questions pertaining to themselves, students awaited the results that would reveal their top ten most compatible matches in the school. The 2000 Variety Show, Around The World In A Daze, was an enormous hit with two sell-out nights. In the show, the junior class council provided hilarious, "filler" acts between each of the skits. As the core of planning the 2000 Prom, the junior class council divided themselves between twelve committees in order to cover all of the details involved with the most elegant night of the entire school year. Many, long hours of work were involved to make Prom one of the best ever.

Working diligently throughout the school year, the junior class council accomplished many tasks in an outstanding manner.

The sophomore class dove into the new school year with lots of school spirit and energy. With the leadership of five very involved officers, Joey Ciucci, Andrew Sledd, Blake Lewis, Aaron Cathell, and Tin-Htut Myint, the class was guaranteed to have a great year. The officers had a lot plans for their class. These officers were helped by the sophomore class council, a group of dedicated students who participate in many of their class activities.

The class really started to show their school spirit during spirit week leading up to the homecoming football game. Lauri Monheim was honored to walk in the homecoming pep rally for winning decade day. The sophomores also raised enough money to earn second place in the spirit links contest. With their float theme "Serving up the Vikings," the sophomores showed the rest of the school the results of all their hard work. The class elected Hannah McKinney, Karla Lazenby, Blake Tyson, and Ginny Smith as their princesses this year. Junior year is right around the corner for these students, and in order to prepare for their upcoming costly year, the class held a car wash over the summer to raise some extra money. And, yes, the variety show skit improved greatly from the previous year.

These sophomores are showing thier Eagle spirit at the homecoming pep rally after finding out that they earned second place in the spirit links contest.

Freshman Class Council

The freshmen class council had a strong start, continually displayed their unrivalled spirit, and regularly offered to lift a helping hand. Laura Garrison, Melissa Light, Bob Hsia, Victor Fedorov, and Maggie Burns led the class through a highlighted year with their great dedication and spirit.

The class immediately had a committed attitude and began to dedicate time and effort through service projects for the community. The council sponsored the Teddy Bear Drive, through which they raised bears for children who had undergone trauma-related incidents. The teddy bears were donated to rescue facilities throughout the area. During the holiday season, the class adopted a local family and donated clothes and toys to the children, as well as planned the preparation of a Christmas dinner in support of the family.

Freshmen "Rocked the Boat" for their first year homecoming float. Melissa Light, Brooke Caskey, Maggie Burns, and Jen Lucas were unanimously elected class princesses and represented the freshmen well. Winter homecoming brought a new twist, and Walker Williams, Roy Fuller, Scott Alexander, and Victor Federov were chosen to represent the class as freshmen princes.

Overall, the class displayed tremendous spirit and enthusiasm, as well as became active throughout the community.

Office, Guidance, and Administration

There's no doubt about it. The administration was the backbone of the school this year. Also, at the beginning of the year, Guidance was the "cool place to be." Virtually everyone was in there trying to get the perfect schedule. Of course, everything turned out okay. For example, Clay Nolde, senior, states "I got three schedule changes in the first three weeks of school."

The people in the office were the ones who kept us in line. Without Principal John McGinty and his assistants' concern for the school and students, the lives of 1,953 students would have lost quality. Their secretarial staff supported them.

The two nurses, Mrs. Crasper and Mrs. Miller were there when needed, alert to the symptoms of all. "I love the clinic," proclaims junior Meghan Hamilton.

History

As the new millenium approached, people began to think about the past. Who better to point the way than the history teachers? Whether it was Ms. Ballinger, who recounted the civil war, or Ms. Bishop who dissected the Constitution, the history department is repsonsible for the common understanding everyone shares of events leading to the year 2000.

This year the history department strived to ensure that its students comprehended the hardships endured by America's forefathers for personal freedom. Through holding a mock congress and going on field trips to such places as Washington, D.C., the history teachers ensured an enjoyable history class, and a remembrance of the past, and a celebration of the future.

Math and Science

Who knew that Mr. Lehman would venture to Mt. Everest this year? Or that Godwin was on television every night for the weather? How about the fact that Godwin has the first electron microscipe in the county? Well, it's all true. Thanks to the hard-working science staff, led by Ms. Mulvany, students strived to remain at the head of the pack in science. But what about math, you may inquire? With Mr. Hoy in charge, math was sure to have just as a productive a year as science.

Both subjects offered a wide variety of classes. From genetics with Mrs. Mayo, to chemistry with Mr. Roach; and from calculus with Mr. Kreisa to geometry with Mr. White, Godwin has got it all. Besides, with the new additions of Mr. Yartz to the math staff and Ms. Shore to the science staff, this year proved to be a great success.

Foreign Language

Parlez vous Francais? Hablas Espanol? These are just a few of the many questions asked by students every day. French and Spanish, arethe two most common languages taken. Other students try their luck at different languages such as Latin, German, Japanese, and Russian.

Did you know that there is a club for every language you could take? While teaching students to become fluent in a language, the foreign language department taught the culture and history of each country to its language students through class and clubs. How you can learn culture and history of the country through a club? Trips to exhibits, restaurants, and other cultural arts rounded out what was ontroduced in the room, allowing students to learn a language while getting involved, foreign language always benefits a person in the long run with the world's growing population in non-English speaking nations.

English

Grammar, literature, and writing... no matter how you say it, it's all part of the English curriculum. The English department, headed by Ms. Killian, has always instilled each of these components.

With new SOL standards, the English exam was separated distinctively into three sections: grammar, literature and writing. Sophomores focused on grammar to help with the writing compositions that as seniors they must produce and literature to expose themselves to various types of novels they will study in their senior year. Juniors spend much of the year studying poetry and American literature. Seniors study multiple eras of literature, emphasizing British literature to broaden their scope of knowledge for their senior essay.

Business

Imagine yourself as the president of a major computer programming company or the owner of an accounting firm. Think of all the fame and money you would have at arms' length. One day you're sitting in a comfortable swivel chair at your expensive desk in your huge corner office on the seventeenth floor overlooking the city when you start to wonder how you got to this point in your life. You realize, the business class you took advantage of while you were in "the best times of your life" at Godwin brought you there.

Every year plenty of students take advantage of the practical classes available to them through the business department. These classes teach the students significant life skills for their future. Classes range from computer skills to personal finance to speedwriting. While learning how to take shorthand notes for college or how to balance a checkbook, students come in contact with highly beneficial tips for future use. "I got my job through Godwin's marketing," says Angie McGuiley, senior.

Physical and Driver Educations

As you walk through the doors of the hot, muggy locker room, you remember that when you left the house this morning, it was raining. A slight ray of hope flashes through your mind, "Maybe for some reason, we won't dress out today!" Right as the thought enters your mind, you hear a familiar voice shouting at the other end of the locker room. Slipping back into reality, the familiar words, "...and YES. We ARE dressing out today!" are spoken by the one and only Mrs. Moser. As department head, Mrs. Moser will accept no slacker's excuses.

Taking advantage of the driver education program is an excellent idea. It teaches specifics about cars that can help out a driver in need of an oil change, or if a car broke down in the middle of Pump Road. Instead of paying $250.00 to take driver education somewhere else, students have the advantage of quality teachers like Mr. Crocker and Mr. Morano for free.

The "Three Men and Little Lady" - Jessica Thomas, Teddy Reed, Pradeepa Ganhewa, and Jeff Byers await the arrival of homeroom reps for the tuesday morning meeting.

Holiday cheer is spread on Mrs. Martins door with the creativity of her fourth period class.

The Student Cooperative Association went through many new changes this year. Through the leadership of Jessica Thomas, Teddy Reed, Pradeepa Ganhewa, Jeff Byers and the dedicated sponsorship of Mrs. Mary Bruner the SCA was the heart of the school. Powder Puff Football, Pep Rally Activities, Spirit Days, music in the halls, Door Decorating, and the annual Blood Drive were all sponsored by the SCA.

Each second Thursday of every month, the vice-presidents of all clubs attended the Inter-Club Council meeting held with the SCA, enabling the SCA to communicate with clubs throughout the school. The ICC completed plans for the memorial garden for Governor Godwin and proposed fundraisers and led a drive for monotary donations.

Homecoming decorations provided by the Pep Club decorate the stands for SCA's activities.

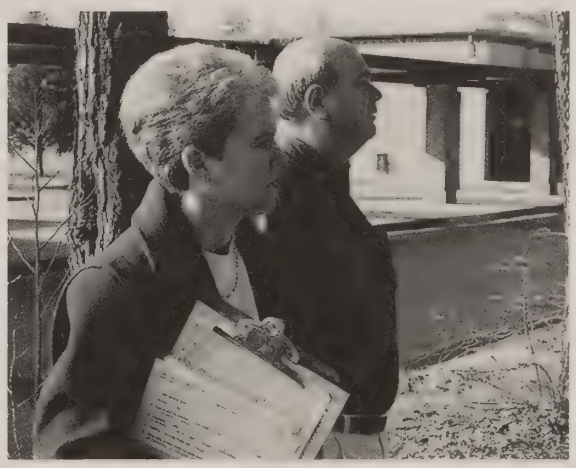
Two of the most community oriented clubs this year have been Interact and Peers. Interact continued to work throughout the year with activities such as assisting at local churches through Caritas and by stuffing stockings for children in a program with the Salvation Army. Crestview Elementary School also benefited from Interact with tutoring programs. The devoted interacters were led this year by president Shayla Edwards and sponsor Mrs. Haug.

Thanks to the peers, it has been a smooth transition for a large freshman class. Peers also held Eagle Snaks in sponsor Mrs.Bryant's room. A student forum for expressing opinions on current issues, Eagle Snaks had a successful year.



Sponsor, Mrs. Bryant monitors the events of peer training closely.

From helping park the cars of the Godwin fans, to collecting canned foods for the Christmas Mother Drive, Key Club is constantly helping out our surrounding community. Headed by club sponsor Mr. Traylor, the club members with their bright orange vests and walkie-talkies, park cars for Godwin's various school related activities. Some of these include all of the home Godwin football games, baseball games, assemblies, and the Drama boosters yard sale. After events, Key Club members help the custodians clean up the surrounding areas to ensure Godwin to have a clean campus for everyone to enjoy.

Overall, Key Club plays a very active part in being Godwin High School's giving back to the community. Through many ways, this club has shown Godwin how important it is to care for our neighbors.

Once again Keyettes used this school year to do a variety of events help the school and commmunity. This club was led by Jenny Kerley, Carrie Graham, Yvonne Mowery, Sandra Park, and Tram-Ahn Nguyen.

The Keyettes volunteered at Brighton Gardens and made holiday cards for the residents at Cedarfield. Showing their school spirit, eleventh and twelfth grade Keyettes made posters to cheer on their school at sporting events. The students show their dedication to the club by turning in items for various drives.

The Keyettes used this year to its fullest to show their dedication and desire to serve others. Senior Angie Deal sums it up by saying, "This club is a self-rewarding organization that betters the lives of others."

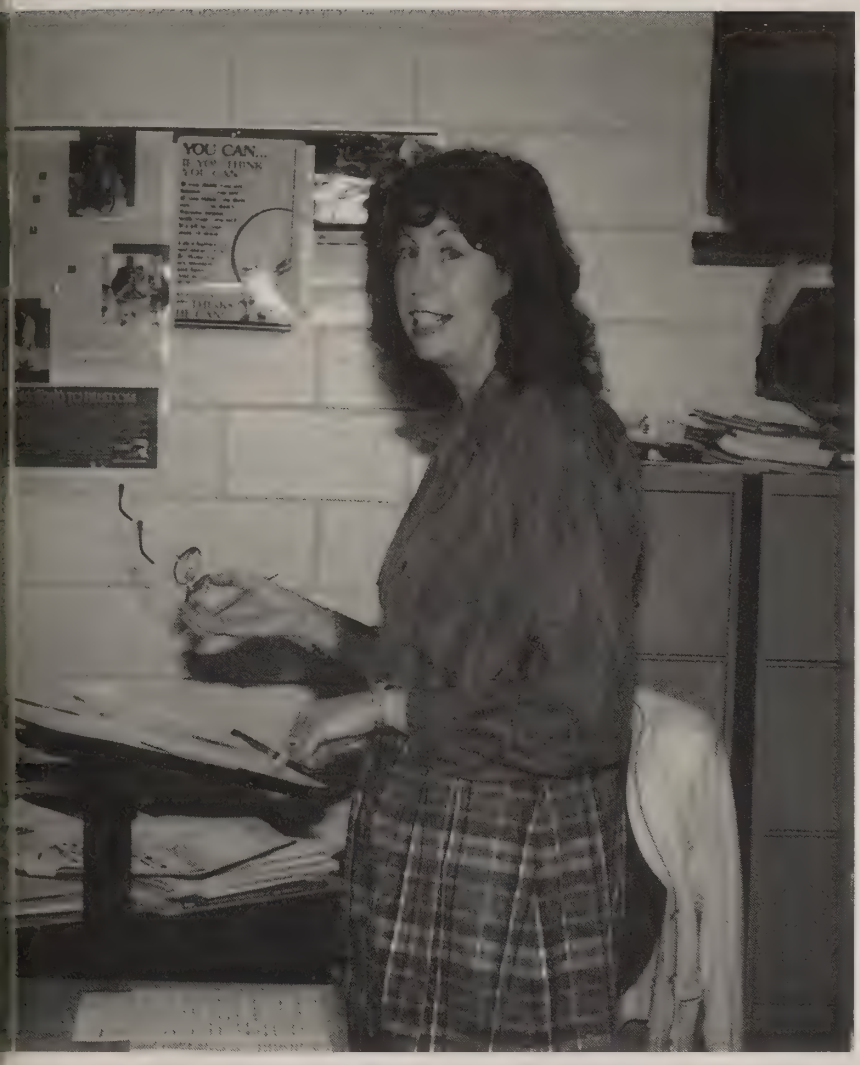
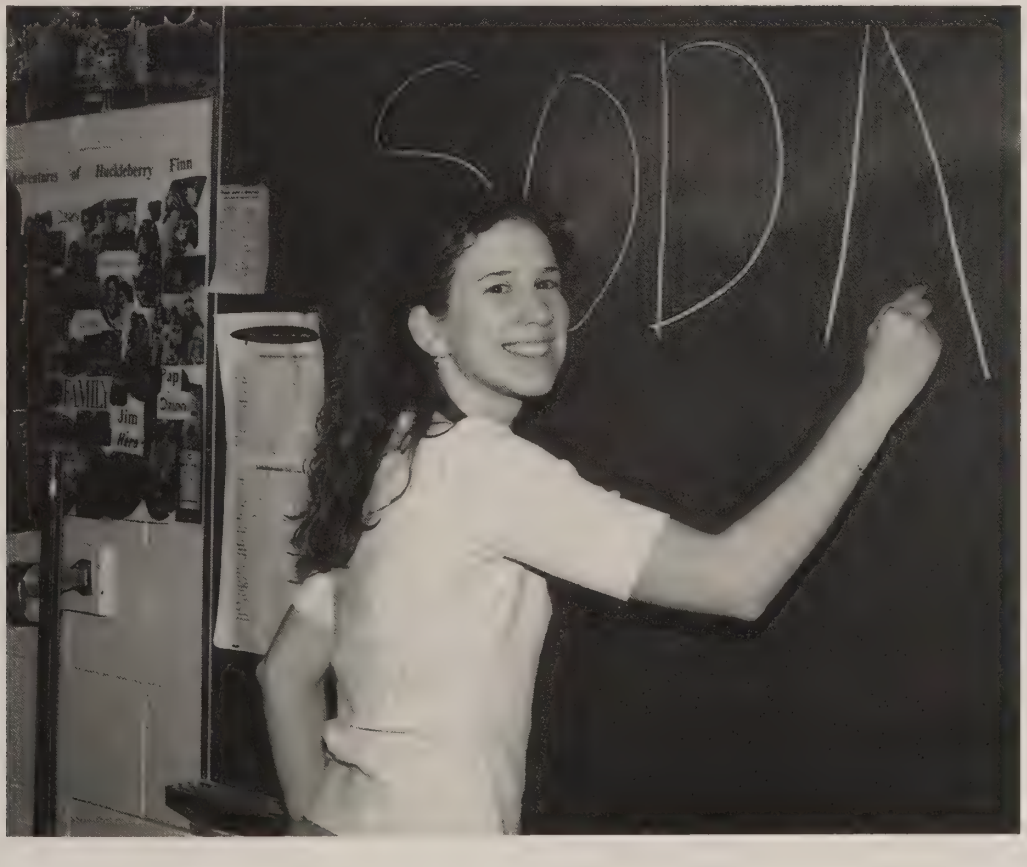
Prevette, L. Lemco, J. Wenger, S. Kim, C. Dalkemper, B. Lazarchic, L. Jones, A. Sartain, S. Stein, J. Thomas;



Led by sponsors Ms. Ballinger and Ms. Ford, the students composing the Student Organization for Developing Attitudes shaped the maleable minds of young sixth grade students at Byrd Middle School. Forced to cope with a change in Byrd's class scheduling, they tought the students how to deal with conflicts they may encounter in high school such as cheating, drug and alcohol use, manners, dating, study habits, and peer pressure.

The building of the new Pocahontas Middle School forced the SODA teams to split into two groups. Byrd's administration placed students remaining at Byrd in classes together and students moving to Pocahontas midyear in classes together. Teams assigned to instruct future Pocahontas students followed them to their new school.

Due to their block scheduling, students at Byrd and Pocahontas attend an academic wheel class each day, providing a convenient period for SODA members to teach their lessons every other week. At the beginning of the year, SODA teams ask the students to fill out a survey listing their favorite activities. The teams then feature a boy and a girl each week on a superstars poster, highlighting his and her favorite activities.



(Above) Erin Buckley thinks that Ms. Ballinger's idea for a new SODA lesson will excite the students.

As the alarm clock sounds, various Godwin students arise from their beds to begin a day capped by volunteering within a plethora of groups. From elementary school tutoring to SPIRAL swimmers to elderly buddies, the Student Organization for Helping Others allows its members to show their zeal for community service. With programs such as tutoring at the YES shelter and Byrd mentors, SOHO touched the teenagers of the neighborhood as well. The organization also held an all-inclusive club dinner for members. Senior Whitney Smith remarks, "I get to help kids that need special attention. It's really rewarding to watch their progress and enthusiasm!" With its many members, SOHO was able to continue its tradition of excellence in community service.

Jr. Keyettes and SHAARK both foccused their efforts toward community service this year. Jr. Keyettes tirelessly helped the area by making holiday baskets for the less fortunate, as well as making desserts for the custodial staff. The Jr. Keyettes main fundraisers this year were the No-Talk-a-Thon and the Book Sox sales. Most of the proffits from these two fundraisers went to various charities and holding food drives for local churches. The SHAARK members worked hard this year trying to prevent drinking and driving among the Godwin students. By putting red ribbons on car antenas and decorating the halls with anti-drinking and driving signs, the SHAARK club really did their part.

Three co-curricular clubs are well-known among students enrolled in business or marketing classes. Members of FBLA, the Future Business Leaders of America, attend leadership conferences and complete on regional and state levels in the spring.

Cooperative Office Educators, headed by Mr. Thomas, helps students apply their skills to the corporate business world. The twenty-two students in this program work a minimum of 27 hours per week and earn an additional credit outside the classroom.

DECA is an association of marketing students. The Distributive Education Clubs of America involve students in marketing programs while simultaneously working and competing in various categories against area schools.

Interested members of the Law Club listen attentively to a guest speaker.

The clubs of Astronomy, Science, and Law all had a year packed with unique activities. The Astronomy Club started the year off right with a sky watch during the meteor showers, that brought 1000 plus community members together at Godwin's football field on a weekday night. They even found a new asteroid under the supervision of Mr.Lehman. Sponsored by Mrs. Shore, Meteorology had a fantastic first year. Started off small; monthly meetings and discussions about the weather were main club activities.

The Law Enforcement Club studied how to follow the law under their leader, Officer Woodcock, in addition to having other law related speakers. To top off the year, the Law Club took a trip to Lake Anna to celebrate.

The FEA and FCCLA have been active in school and home.

The FEA is for students who want to have a education in their future careers. Some great speakers, student teachers and Dr. Gerber are part of their activity. This provided them with a chance to see if they would really enjoy teaching.

The FCCLA is a large group of students who stay busy throughout the year helping all kinds of people. The decision to change the name from FHA-HERO occured at a convention in Boston over the summer. They particapated in a Christmas drive with Salvation Army, and had a family dinner where they announced the officers. This club is getting ready for a competition in Va Beach,and hope for a big turn out.

Chante Jones is preparing to run for state in teaching materials for young children.

FCCLA princesses Marlow Hamlin, Crystal Herrman, and Megan Maddox prepare to take off at the parada.

Quick answers and intelligent conversations about a variety of complex topics make up the Battle of the Brains meetings and practices. Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Barnes sponsor and lead the team. Mrs. Barnes said of the team's accomplishments this year, "We have placed in at least the quarter-finals in every competition we have been in, even against 30 or more teams."

Working with speed and great desire, the newly christened Web Development Committee, formerly the Netizens club, began their year by changing in order to create a more productive group of students. Sponsors Mrs. Mulvany and Mrs. Bennett comprise the head of the club. Edwin Bachetti, the Editor- in-Chief of the site, commented: "Basically, this year we wanted to start over. New name, new attitude. Its been fun for all of us."

(Bottom) Michelle Medley cuts a sheet of paper in order to make a sign denoting the time and place of a sporting event.

With a late start this year due to sponsorship, the bowling club still enjoyed the same popularity and support as in recent years. With new sponsors and new officers, Godwin students returned to Sunset Lanes to enjoy many afternoons of unlimited bowling and bonding with fellow students.

While some students bowled in the afternoons, others enjoyed the after school time with the art club. Wether making gingerbread houses or donating presents to the Freedom House, art club helped students to release their creative energy.

School spirit ran wild this year with the pep club uniting Godwin students at sporting events, and other school functions. By putting up event signs, the pep club informed students of school activities this year at Godwin.

It was tough carrying all those trees, so some people had to take a breather in the midst of them!

Meeting every Wednesday for a brief period in search of the bags of paper set out by many classrooms, the Ecology Club set out to help preserve our precious earth. The following members presided over the club: Maria Munoz, President; Scott Howard, Vice President; Mary Elizabeth Brooks, Secretary; Kassaye Kassaye and Laura Trienen, Co-Treasurers. Mrs. Chowen and Ms. Brown served as the sponsors. Aside from meeting each week, the club also participated in various activities. They enjoyed numerous field trips, including a voyage to the aquarium and an environmental workshop at the Omni Hotel. As an excellent wrapup to the holiday season, they also assisted with Christmas tree recycling.

Strongman Coach Ron Axselle could lift a whole tree farm on his back, but chooses to carry a single tree.

Co-Treasurer Kassaye Kassaye lifted those trees with ease.

The French club, with Mrs. Morgan as its sponsor, was able to dive into a new year with five very involved officers. Johanna Lukhard, the club's president, was elected princess for the homecoming parade. The French club had many fun activities for this year's members to take place in. They started off the year with a "kick-off picnic" and they experienced French food at the House of Vietnam. The club had a scavenger hunt where they split into groups and followed clues around the school.

The Spanish club's officers had some new things planned their club. They had dinners at different Mexican restaurants including El Paso, Casa Grande, and Taco Bell. As a new activity, Spanish club had Salsa Lessons for its members in preparation for a dance they sponsored in the commons.

Latin, Russian, and German are languages we don't often hear about, but these clubs have made these languages more accessible to students.

The Latin Club started off with the National Latin Convention. They have also had dinners including a "never ending" pasta eating contest.

The Russian Club meets every Wednesday. They have done activities including a movie night. They had a fortune teller came in and their fortune was told. Brian Davis says "The Russian club is a great experience and teaches us a whole lot about the culture."

The German Club is also a very exciting club as well. Austin Bigdelly says they have done quite a few activities including: dinner, games and of course their regular meetings.

The cast of As You Like It gathers together. (below)

As the curtains rose on Shakespeare's As You Like It, the Short Pump Players started their year under the careful direction of Mr. Damron and Ms. Butler. The Short Pump Players also produced the winter play, Murder at the Vicarage, and the spring musical, Oklahoma!

The romantic comedy, As You Like It, featuring Leah Lubman and Adam Otstot in a confusion of identities delighted the audience in the fall. Next up, Agatha Christie's Murder at the Vicarage baffled viewers with a mystery featuring Erica Shapiro as a detective in a seemingly impossible case.

Finally, the spring hit musical, Oklahoma! concluded the year with an outstanding production filled with romance, comedy, and beautiful music.

Stephen Howard and Adam Otstot struggle.

Scott Sutton and Stephen Bristow show off their acting talents.

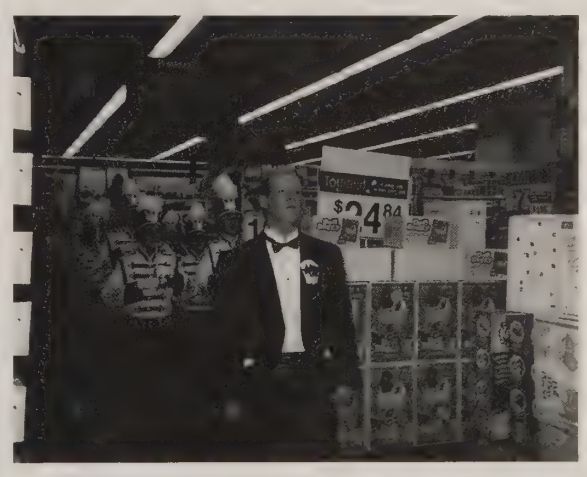
Concertmaster Shayla Edwards creates beautiful music as she tunes her violin(above).

Sports teams were not the only ones who practiced long and hard during the summer. Our favorite halftime entertainment, band and colorguard, spent countless hours during June, July, and August. The big payoff? Satisfied fans during the football season.

The band, colorguard, and strings worked very hard for one culminating event, the spring trip in Toronto, Canada. This was a competition against people from all over the USA and Canada. To prepare for this competition, the band strings and colorguard participated in smaller festivals and competitions in which they were judged throughout the year. The band director, strings instructor, colorguard coach, drum majors, concert masters, and team captains helped build an orchestra, colorguard, and a band of renoun.

Strings students John Morris, Carter McLarin, and Jamie Kilpatrick prepare their instruments for a morning of making wonderful music(below).



Drum Major Michael Ozment leads the band down the aisles of Wal -Mart to raise money for the Tim Sullivan Memorial Scholarship(below).

With Ms. Sherri Matthews leading the chorus into a new millennium, nothing stood in their way. Madrigals, Show Choir and Eagles Combination started out the school year by performing "Mozart's Requiem" at Hermitage High School, while A Capella and Musical Illusions performed Benjamin Britain's "Ceremony of Carols" with Hermitage girls. Senior Angie Deal says, "Singing 'Ceremony of Carols' was a positive experience that taught me how to work with choral students from other schools."

They also performed in Canada on their annual spring trip. The choral groups held various concerts at home in nursing homes, churches, and other places around the community. Madrigals and A Cappella serenaded Eagle fans with the national anthem at home football and basketball games.

Selected chrorus members also performed in Honors, District and All-State choirs, showing that their voices, among the best all-around, can compete on many levels.

Forensics is an organization for those who are sharp of memory and have a delightful speaking voice. Forensics is under the leadership of Ms. Hudson who was the co-representative last year. The captain of the team is Hillary Cooper, a junior whose speaking skills are unsurpassed. In forensics the speaker is required to choose a selection memorize it and present it to the club and at competitions.

Ah debate, the activity for the quick of mind rather than the quick of hand. Debate was made for eloquent speakers. Doing well in English may be am indicator debate is the path for you. This year's debate squad was divided into two teams the Lincoln-Douglas with captain Praveen Rao and the Policy team with captain Faraj Bader and Dianna May. This year's debate team is filled with new members, many of which have the makings bringing new fire to the debate team's furnace.

Sponsored by the magnificent W. Barry Gibrall, the newspaper was published with great success. They were divided into two staffs. Gretchen Buskirk was the editor of one staff, Will Knight the other, and David Smock was editor-in-chief of everyone. The staff was separated for all but the first, holiday, and senior issues. This was for the magnification of the issues. They will continue the separation next year.

Its largest staff to date, the Literary Magazine stayed after every Thursday afternoon to work on this publication of pictures, poems, and short stories. At the meetings they split into two groups and went over the many different submissions. Not only did the Lit Mag put out the magazine, they sponsored Poetry Day once again.

Co editor-in-chief Dane Cho explains to staff members Sandra Park and Matt Bossler which submissions should be published.

Sports

With much enthusiasm, the varsity football players run through the goal post to begin their game.

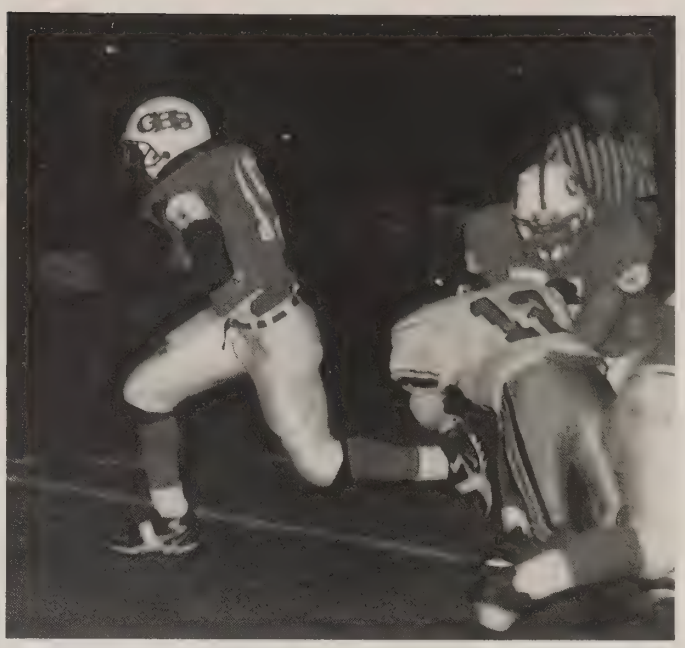
On A Roll

Imagine wearing almost ten pounds of padding in the August heat and humidity and then having to practice football. Utmost dedication and perserverance carry one player to do this every summer. Optimism ran high for the season as Garrett Whitlow commented "We have a good team this year and hopefully we will do well." But the 1999 season proved to be most bizarre . At the first home game, Joe Tyson was knocked out, causing him to lose some of his memory. Two games later on September 17, a day most students will remember as Hurricane Floyd day, the football players had a game. The lights at the stadium even went out once at halftime causing shrieks, screams, and a football player running around shirtless.

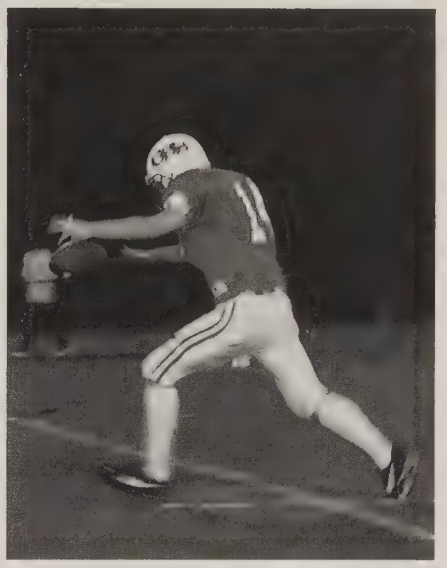
Bizarre events notwithstanding, this season extremely well. Seniors Daniel Park, Garrett Whitlow, and Robbie Dalton led the team at linebacker and safety, wideout and defensive back, and offensive guard. I. D. Fubara was the main touchdown scorer with an average of three touchdowns per game. Joe Tyson was a strong junior on the team at defensive and offensive end. Even a few sophomores, including Matt Bristow at quaterback, helped this team to succeed.

This season was hard fought with many great teams in the area all vying for the coveted district playoff spot. It all came done to the Godwin-Freeman game, the great West End rivals, to decide who would go. Although the players did not win, they still produced a productive and winning season.

I. D. Fubara makes a dominating charge to the endzone as he scores another touchdown (below).



This player demonstrates his agility as he stretches to catch the football (Above).



Going for that extra point, this Godwin kicker shows a somewhat different side of football(Above).

Unstoppable

Starting as early in the summer as August 5th, the J.V. football team began their tough practices in the hot summer sun. From the very beginning, with their mind set on success, the team drove forward together. In addition, as Walker Williams stated, "the confidence accquired from perfecting of their skills due to countless practices and tough games really paid off and was a great experience." this overpowering team crushed every opponent except the Freeman rebels. In fact the J.V. football team set an all time record high after several years. With each victory the team grew, not in size, but in strength and spirit. However, "first, the choaches believed in us, and as we started winning we believed in ourselves too", commented Johnny Junes. Enthusiasm also ran high throughout the entire season, not only for the team, but also for the entire school. Despite many of the novice players, the teaching strategies of the coaches and the immense input by the players resulted in successive victories. As coach Svor summed up, "We had a great season...and the boys really really worked hard for it." Well, what was the secert to this success? Perhaps the principle of Synergy---the idea that the whole is greater than the sum of its parts, or in simpler terms, the unified work of the offense and defense working together, makes it clear.

Below; Pure determination can be seen in Tim Belby's face as he stretches every muscle for the percious football.

Queens on Court

Feel the excietment in the gym when the varsity Girls Volleyball team takes the floor. Under Mrs. Weston, Ms. Long, and captain Allison Jones the girls seemed almost unstoppable. No sissy girls, they practiced and trained every day of the week. The team maintained a record of 21 wins and 1 loss, losing only to Cox, the number one team in the state. The one defeat happened in the First Union Commonwealth Classic Tournament at VCU. The girls still pull off an outstanding second place finish and the title of number two in the state. First in their district and region are two other titles claimed by the team. Part of the equation was the squad of veteran seniors: Courtney Collins, Emily Smith, Carly Lusk, and Captain Allison Jones, who led the team. These volleyball "pros" helped keep the younger members in line and make sure they lived up to their reputation.

Courtney Collins and Shahrzad Firuzabadian stared on this year's squad. When asked about Shahrzad's playing, Corri Pfister said, "She has improved so much and now she is such a great player." The Godwin girls have managed to maintain 230 wins and 13 losses since 1989. The caliber of volleyball players was the best it has ever been, the girls also continued their record of never losing a district game.

Served 'Em Up

"We had a rough start but the team is slowly bringing it together," said junior Scott Howard, referring to the team early in the season. Boys' Varsity Volleyball did bring it together toward mid season, winning many of their games. Almost all of the players said the same thing. The beginning was slow but they improved as the season went on. Made up of mostly juniors who were new to the varsity side of things, they needed to get the hang of it. Not only outstanding juniors, but also talented seniors like Brandon Smit and Kevin Cox anchored the squad. Starting sophomore Kevin Hoy also contributed as he set strongly and supported the team.

The guys had games during the week, with competitions on the weekends, too. Practicing almost every day during the week and even on weekends paid off: they won many. Practice doesn't just mean hitting the ball, but running laps to perfect their quickness on the court. Going into the final district game against Freeman with a 6-0 lead, they pulled it off to become undefeated for the district championship and went on to regionals.

Up to Varsity

The JV Girls', JV Boys', and Freshmen Girls' Volleyball teams continued to spike and pound their opponents throughout the length of their seasons showing what practice and teamwork was all about on their way to varsity.

The JV Girls demolished all opposing teams by defeating Hermitage in a difficult match and forging a 12-0 season. Outstanding among the players was !!! who !!!. From skill in handling the volleyball and great teamwork they didn't allow a single loss, the girls always remained in the lead or took it back. The girls even suprised their coach. Veteran Coach King said that this is the "most talented group of JV players out of the three years I have been coaching here." The JV Boys' and Freshmen Girls' Volleyball teams also had fun throughout the season, defeating most of the opposition. JV Boys coach Leigh Hobson stated "Considering the number of freshmen, with our goal being a winning record, no matter the outcome, we still improved a lot." Continuing the tradition of working hard and having the capability to pulverize opposing teams, these teams also did their coaches proud throughout the entire season.

Sultanas of Swing

First played in the late seventeeth century in Louis XIV's extensive royal gardens, girls tennis has reached a definitive, culmination in Henrico County's far West End. Under Coach Seidenberg's leadership, the team surpassed last year's accomplishments on the regional level by beating archrival Freeman.

However, earlier in the year, with their coach crippled by an operation, girls tennis strove to overcome adversity. In Seidenberg's absence, Mrs. Bruner took over the coaching position. At the first Freeman-Godwin match, Mrs. Bruner had to fight her own demons before leading the racket-wielding girls into battle. Her own daughter had played for Freeman within the previous four years. Family loyalty versus career. Although Godwin lost by a narrow margin, no one doubted Mrs. Bruner's convictions. "We were missing a coach for a couple of weeks, which you thought would have affected our morale, but we had Mrs. Bruner who was great," assured senior Elizabeth Law.

Either way, the tennis team conquered the Freeman Rebels when it counted in the regional match. Practicing two hours or playing a match every day after school certainly helped build a winning team. Another component undoubtedly was Law who ranked number one on the team , and led the girls to several victories. Also, Junior Brandi Sweeney added, "Our team worked together really well, which helped us get as far as we did."

Ranked number one on the team, senior Elizabeth Law has no insecurities as she hits the bright yellow-green ball.

Coming and Going With Speed

Storming through the woods like lightning, the girls' and boys' cross country teams whizzed through miles of practice. Coming to school two weeks before school started, they began with much enthusiasm and energy, and they have sustained it through the season with the same eagerness.

Senior captains Adam Otstot, Nathan Ruez, and Andy Atkins lead this athletic group of boys. Matt Wolak and Connor Hochleutner are promising sophomores who consistantly place in the top five. One cross country practice consisted of 7 or more miles. To many this may seem a long and boring practice, but Matt Wolak disagrees, "It's never boring. We always have a lot of fun."

The girls' cross country team was lead by seniors Annie Romaine and Monica Trzcinski. The girls' practice consists of five or more miles. Starting off with a blast at a Virginia Beach tournament, the season ended with preparations districts and regionals. As sophomore Anne Rickman states, "It is a lot of hard work but it pays off."

Running solo, Andy Atkins pushes himself to the finish line.

Reaching for Par

With a record of twelve wins and no losses, the golf team had a strong season. For the fourteenth consequtive year they reached the district tournament. The only senior starter on the team, Evan Hart, was extremely close to States, but lost in the playoffs. Even without advancing to the State Competition, Hart enjoyed his last season on the team. "This was the greatest and most fun team that I have ever played on and even though we didn't advance to states, our season was successful," said Hart.

The other starters on this young team were John Reynolds, Jamie Cox, Jeff Donaham, Jonathan Hand, and Ben Wright. The team was disappointed after an undefeated season and then not excelling to states, but we stuck together," said junior John Reynolds. Having played on the team since his freshman year, Reynolds leads the team in experience. Jamie Cox and Jeff Donham made the dstrict team, Donham and Reynolds made the all-district academic team. Last but certainly not least, Evan Hart, Jeff Donham, and John Reynolds made the all-regional team. The underclassmen agree agree that this season is preparation for a bigger and better future.

Dance Team

Dancing during the halftime show, the girls get in the groove.

The dance team encored this past year with a fresh style and a rejuvenated attitude. Led by Laura Treinen and Amanda Lee , the team captains, and Karen Wilkins, the coach,the girls returned to energize audiences and display their moves. Dancing at their basketball halftime shows, the girls showed off their new dances and livened the crowd with their energy. Competing in competitions the girls showed they were more than just entertainment and all their hard work paid off when they won second place in the Eastern Dance Association competition. The girls practices began over the summer and carried on every day during the school year. Amanda Lee expressed the dedication and comaraderie of the team saying, "I can't say enough about the dance team this year. It is a privilege to work with such an incredible group of dancers."

Crowd Pleasers

Hip Hop Hooray, Ho, Hey, Ho. The cheerleading team echoes these lyrics by Naughty by Nature every time they come into contact with a sporting event. Whether it's watching the fall foliage change with the football team or the snow fall outside the gymnasium with the basketball team, the cheerleading squad not only motivates but it also inspires. This conglomerate of lovely, spirited ladies has led to success in many competitions including placing in districts and advancing to regionals. At these collisions of pom-poms, the cheering team had support from the bleachers as well as squadmates. While captains Jennifer Shapiro and Alison Ray help lift the spirits of sports fans, they also motivate teammates.

Shapiro reflects, "At competitions we performed well, but not up the judges' standards. In spite of this, we still impressed the audience with our moves."

What team could accomplish so much without some sassy uniforms? At the beginning of the year the team needed such attire, but had to work hard for their money. Heeding these words, the cheering team held fund raisers such as a car wash, as well as helped to clean up Richmond Braves' Stadium.

Lavonne Smith explains, "It took a great deal of time to raise enough money to buy the new uniforms. We had to sell Mary Kay cosmetics as well as tupperware to friends and family."

All of these events aided the team and the community.

Stomp and Shake It

Those girls attending Freshmen and JV games wearing red and white shirts and skirts and holding pom-poms aren't just some enthusiastic students. They are the fantastic JV Cheerleaders, cheering on their fellow football and basketball players throughout the year. With tryouts in spring, the JV cheerleaders began their season starting practice in August and practicing devotedly whenever they were not cheering at games or competitions. They also demonstrate their undying spirit at pep rallies, where they combine with Varsity cheerleaders to make stunning formations such as pyramids, and send members flying into the arms of the catchers. Coached by Mrs. Embrey and Mrs. King, the girls completed a great cheering season also being led by team captains Emily Campbell and Hannah McKinney. Stunning other schools at local competitions, these hard working young ladies showed off their extensive skills at Regionals, placing sixth, and teaming up with Varsity to place fourth in District competitions against schools such as Freeman, Tucker, and many more. Also appearing in all pep rallies, they spread Godwin spirit throughout the year and support other players. Embrey, summing up her experience, stated "This is my first year, so I'm having a lot of fun. These girls are wonderful and we've been doing great this year."

Slam Dunk The Funk

Led by captains Kassaye Kassaye, Matt Shait, and Joe Tyson, the varsity boys' basketball team had another slamming season.

Making the team one of their main priorities, they practiced diligently almost everyday for two hours. In addition to daily practice, many of members attended basketball camps at Hampden Sydney College and Old Dominion University.

Despite a slow start to the season, the team pushed themselves harder to surprise everyone by placing third in the Chantilly Tournament in Washington D.C. Kassaye Kassaye and Matt Shait were named to the All Tournament Team from a selection of eight other teams. The team also played an amazingly close game against main rival Douglas Freeman High School. Screaming fans packed the gymnasium as the players gave it their all with determination and skills that were truly brought out on the court.

As in the past years, the members of the team continued to have an amazing friendship and a real sense of unity. "We spend so much time together on and off the court that it helps us play as a team rather than individuals," says senior Matt Shait. Their closeness enabled them to work together to lead them to their triumphs over other area schools. Shooting, passing, and slamming, the varsity boys basketball team ended the winter season with the strength of steel and the bond of camraderie to rock the gymnasium.

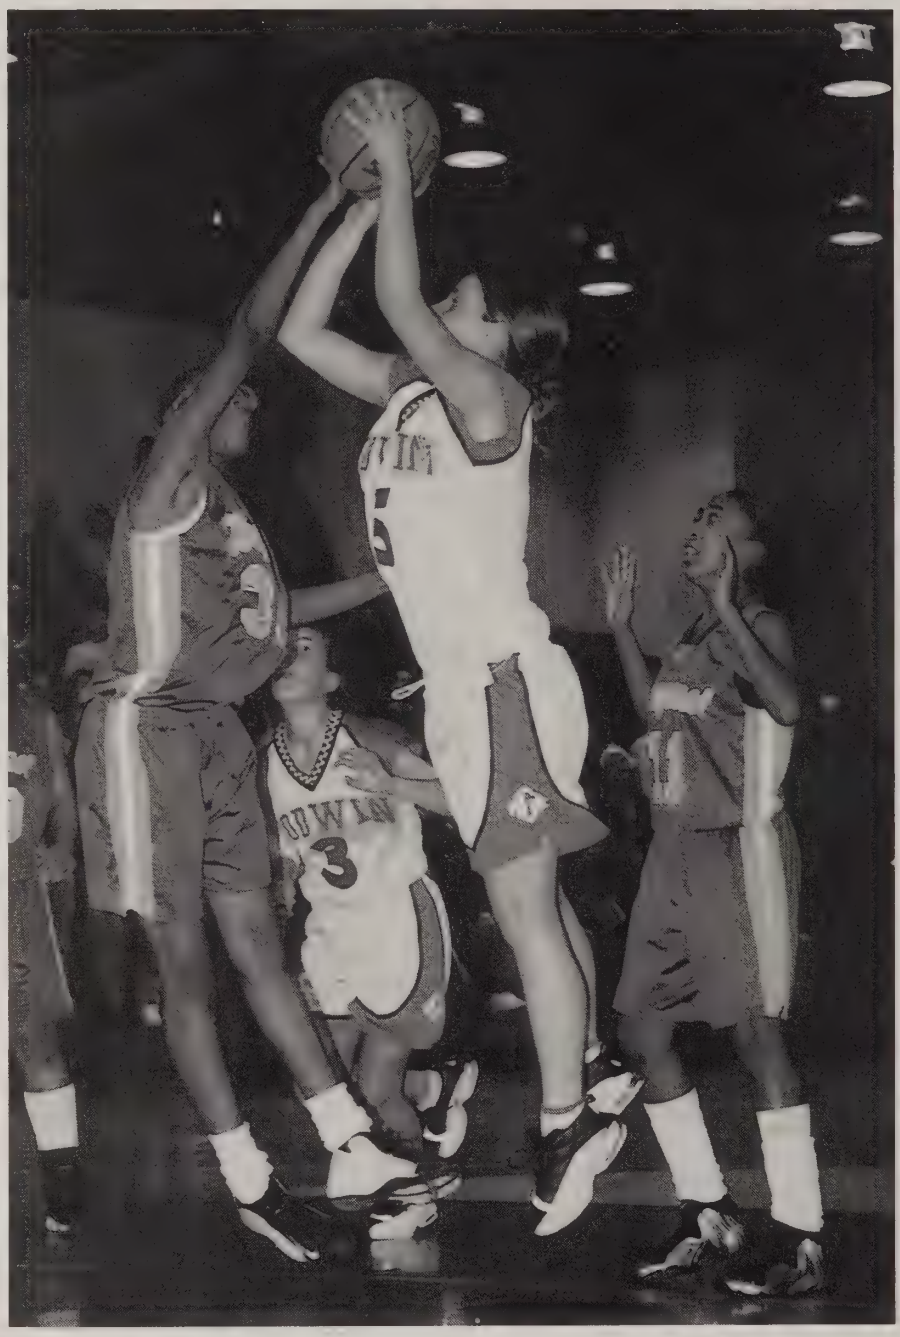
Dribble, Shoot, Win!

Dribble, shoot, win! The method of choice for the Girls Varsity Basketball team. Ending the season with a 12-6 record, the team relentlessly defended their school, largely due to four particularstarters, including Lauren Krizansky, A.B. Robbins, Holly Bucheit, and Katie Bright. According to Coach Rob White, "Our bench is stronger than we've ever been before. There have been many games when almost every girl has palyed. In fact, everyone on the team played in the Hermitage game." Megan Weller, Katie Owings, and Liza Ong'Ante bolstered the defense, while Amanda England handled the ball away. Miranda Northcut excelled at three point shots. Kristen Freiberger played forward, and when Courtney Wolff was injured, Jackie Murphy took over her at guard and forward.

The Freeman game was definately one for the record books. The buzzer went off at the end of the regulation, the score tied. In the last 20 seconds of overtime, they were tied again. The buzzer went off, but a roar of cheer arose from the Freeman side. A Freeman player made a shot clearly after the buzzer went off, but the refs counted it. Since that game, many people examined the tape. Noting that the "winning shot" occured after the buzzer. Only a second overtime could have determined the true winners. Luckily, on February 18 we had the chance to play Freeman again. The game was close however, Godwin pulled ahead slightly. It was enough to beat the lady rebels.



No matter how hard you try, no one can stop Lauren Krizansky from making a shot.

Hot Shots

The JV boys and girls basketball team as well as the ninth grade team all had remarkable seasons and are gearing their way in the varsity direction. The JV boys team, with Coach Schneider had great dedication this year, resulting in a great season.

The JV girls team ended up with a winning streak of 9-4. Coaches Dawn Moses and Tina Rochelle led their girls to many victories, finishing with a great year. The first time the girls played Hermitage, they lost, so they were determined to win their second time win a great revenge! They were all so proud when they beat them with a score of 42-39! Stephanie Lehman remarked that "This team was a lot of fun. Everyone got along and this helped us to work well on the court."

Lastly, the ninth grade boys team with a record of 6-7 was headed up by Coach Nate Schwab. Josh Shait quotes , "We had a really great season together this year. The team got up at the crack of dawn for practices, that showed the spirit and enthusiasm of the whole team. Hopefully we will all be together on the JV team next year."

All teams showed a tremendous effort that really paid off. We can't wait to see them show their stuff in the upcoming years!

Pin 'Em Down

How did thirty-three students spend their afternoons? You guessed it. They wrestled.

Every afternoon for four months these students spent their quality time learning new moves and new techniques in order to enhance their skills. Wrestling is a unique sport because the members of the team work as a whole while also working for an individual record. It is important for each member of the team to encourage the others so that both the team and the individual succeed.

In the regular season the team came in fourth in the district. Their overall record was seven and nine, which is not as well as they had hoped. While wrestling on their own turf at districts, the team as a whole was ranked fourth. Several individuals emerged as winners. Junior Patrick Louka and Senior Kyle Duncan were distrct champions, both taking home a first place in their weight class. Second place went to Senior Mike Campbell and Junior Mike Karam. Junior John Maury is ranked sixth in the region. "With hard work and dedication in the off season, we expect to be one of the top teams in the region next year," said Coach Crocker.

The majority of the wrestling team is underclassmen. The varsity line-up consists of four seniors, five juniors and five sophomores. Coach Crocker commented on the age of the group by saying, "Though the team is a young one, they worked hard all season and showed improvement as the season progressed."

Snow Shoes

Despite rain, sleet, freezing rain, and even the blizzard, the indoor track team could be seen braving the wrath of mother nature. With souls of steel, the members faithfully completed each practice. Except for competitions at the Arthur Ashe Center, the team rarely received the luxury of indoor conditions.

Headed by coach Chris Earle, who set the standard of dedication, traveling from Charlottesville one hour to work every day, and aided by assistant coach Kelly Nagle, the team sprinted through an incredible season. Beginning with much potential, the members lived up to overall expectations. The team's hard work and long, exhausting practices paid off with many of its members qualifying for Districts as well as Regionals. Adam Otstot reflects, "I've always complained about running 11-lap miles during the winter at the Arthur Ashe center, but now I realize that it's a whole lot better than running outside in a foot of snow!"

Although normally noted for their runners, the team gained recognition for their field events as well.

With no competition in sight, Adam Otstot secures his victory in the eleven-mile run.

Gymnastic: Superfantastic

"Flipping and a-flopping, bipping and a-bopping." Although basically an accurate description of the main tenets of gymnastics, these six words cannot even begin to give this sport the credit it deserves. With over eight hours of practice a week, these young women have molded and trained themselves into tightly wound balls of balance.

With fourteen people this season, the team reached critical mass. In their infinite wisdom, head coach Sheri Rabe and assistant coach Sarah Kemminik created an "alternative" team to complement the "competitive" team. More girls than ever were swinging around the uneven bars, propelling themselves over the vault, carefully maintaining balance on the beam, and tumbling across the floor with studiously choreographed, seemingly reckless abandon.

At the district meet, the competitve team brought home the gold, becoming Colonial District champions. Unfortunately not everyone on the team progressed past the regional level. Senior Carly Lusk and sophomores Kristen Maconochie and Melissa Topscher made it to the state competition as individuals. "We definiteley had a better team this year than last even though the team as a whole did not go as far," said lead gymnast Carly Lusk.

Hit and Run

Hitting the season off with a smash, the JV baseball team held intense try-outs in the beginning of March. The final team consisted of nine sophomores and ten freshmen. Coaches Hunter Thomas and Rally Axselle were extremely impressed as they watched the effort that the JV team put forth.

When the actual game season began, exceptionally hard practices alternated with hard-fought games on weekday afternoons. The team had their first game against Monacan on March 21. Returning players, Chris Anderson, Matt Gammon, Ryan Holmes, and Andy Morgan proved to be the stars of the team as the season progressed.

Finishing the season with an outstanding record, the members of the JV baseball team proved their excellence.

Grand Slam

The varsity baseball team came into the spring season with a winning attitude. As the returning state champions, the team had a reputation to maintain. Great team spirit and dedication forged a victorious season. With the help of great coaching by John Marano assisted by Billy Berry, the team proved that they were capable of achieving all of their goals.

This year's team was a young one after losing many seniors last year. Practicing every day after school and some weekends, the team improved. "We've got a lot of talent on the team this year, but still have some work to do to keep up with last year," says junior Matt Armstrong.

The players this year were very strong as a team, and showed great teamwork in everything that they did, whether it was tryouts, practice, or games. Players were very encouraging to each member and always showed a positive attitude. The team did not let anything slow them down, and this strength provided them with even more spirit and drive.

Without the determination and dedication that the Eagles possessed, baseball would be impossible. They gave their all in practices and came out victorious in games. They showed that they wouldn't let anything stand between them and the outcome that they had worked so hard to achieve.

Kickin' It Up a Notch

Beginning in March, the soccer spirit again pervades the air. With grass flying and hearts pounding, the Varsity girls soccer team dominated their 2000 season. Coach White leads the girls in his 10th straight year as head coach.

Megan Weller, a top senior who played last year and has received a scholarship to the U.S. Naval Academy for soccer, mentioned "We have individual and team strengths, and combined with our atmosphere of support, we are just awesome this year. This is so much fun having so many of the same faces back again." This season the girls began their tryouts in early March and blasted their way through the season which consists of roughly fifteen to sixteen games on average. With many more returning juniors and seniors to the team, the players are a conglomeration of some new talent but mostly the experience of the pros from last year. All players exclaimed that this season is a sensational experience because of returning players. The man who makes it all happen, Coach White, philosophically commented "This is more of a senior dominated team this year, but all around there is such a lack of selfishness and team support that binds the team tightly together. The key to our season is to combine all of the talents of so many players from different areas into one season."

To sum up the season, the Varsity girls came together, from practice every day from four to six o'clock, and the superb togetherness, support, talent, willingness to sacrifice themselves for the team, and senior experience, to create an unstoppable group of field warriors.

Kickin' Around

Eager to start off strong, the Varsity Boys' Soccer team began practice weeks before the season even commenced. This team ate, breathed, and slept soccer. They yearned for the challenge of competition and the thrill of victory.

Having only five seniors last year, the team was young. This past year, the team was even younger with only four seniors. Eight juniors, five sophomore and one freshman rounded out this talented group.

Junior standout and captain, Jimmy Fitzpatrick lead and united this team with his positive attitude, commenting early in the season, "We have a young, talented team this year, and I know if we pull together, we will be unstoppable." Senior Sean Reed also lead the pack with his athletic maneuvers and stellar sportsmanship on the field. Chris Hignett, one of five sophomores, summed up the team's positive attitude and ambitions with the simple wish, " I hope we do well."

Kickin' it Underclass Style

For the most part, every sophomore and freshman on the JV soccer teams has spent weeks, months, and years perfecting their medium of expression. With a zen-like mastery of their lower limbs and foreheads, they can propel soccer balls in ways Isaac Newton would deem nigh impossible. Yet these dextrous feet which can as easily maneuver through a minefield of shin-gaurded defenders, as can fire a ballistic mass of rubber-girded air with maulingly accurate force, are also required to support their accompanying bodies through ninety minutes of oxygen depleting, physical exertion. These qualities of fitness concentrated into solitary student bodies produce perhaps the most perfect athletic bodies in all of sports.

As the century turned, both the boys and girls JV soccer teams had perhaps one of their better seasons on record. Depending on who was consulted, the boys' team may have reached unparalleled heights on the field of competition or merely maintained the standard. Meanwhile, the girls' team had become incredibly accustomed to playing with soccer balls. What this portends for the future of women's soccer is anybody's guess.

Thanks to these young players striving perpetually for the ever-coveted Varsity team membership, the image of a lonely ninth grader dribbling into the sunset will continue to have a place in the collective conscience.

Godwin Tennis. The very utter of these words makes others shudder at the thought of their impending defeat. With a tradition like Godwin's, it is obvious why. Four state championships, six regional championships, and some of the greatest talent the region has ever seen has come out of the team.

This year's team is no exception to the tradition. Led by seniors Brian Cave, Dane Cho, Ben Hartland, Jimmy Lee, and Clay Nolde and junior Kevin Roy the team had a fabulous season. Super sophomore Brent Wilkins, the 1999 District Player of the Year, was the number one player. Sophomores Matt Berens and Scott Kalafatis were key players. Even some freshmen contributed to the team's success. The team could not have made it as far as it did without the guidance and wisdom of Coach Tom Hoy, who returned again this year as head coach.

Camaraderie and practice are important factors. Junior Kevin Roy commented that "One of the reasons the team is so successful is that we all know and respect each other." Without the support and guidance of fellow members, the team would not have achieved its great record. The hours of sweat the team put into their game proved most beneficial.

The boy's tennis team continued the fine tradition their predecessors created. Maintaining its reign as the powerhouse of the state, the team collected an almost untarnished record. Applause and monetary donations will be collected June 18.

Run Eagles, Run...!

It's 6:15 on a Friday morning; most normal students are asleep, but the outdoor track team is up and running...literally. These dedicated individuals not only practiced every afternoon, rain or shine, but they even had a special practice Friday mornings before the sun got a chance to wake up.

These ladies and gentlemen had the perserverance to run and lift weights every day, in order to perfect their events and stay in shape. Also, there were people pole vaulting, and throwing the discus and the shot put. Coaches Mr. Earle and Ms. Nagle for the girls' team, and Coaches Mr. Williams and Mr. Wagner for the boys, kept this, the biggest spring sport, on track. Sara Duvall remarked that "We had a lot of new additions to the team this year, which helped us to have a great season." Well, they did have fun, working their way to the top in the district rankings.

The key athletes in distance events were Susan Winston and Andy Atkins. In middle and sprints, Corri Pfister and Devin Barton took the track. Artemis Xyderis and Jeff Leary excelled in the shot-put and discus.

Winning Skills

Hardworking and determined: indispensable words when describing the Varsity Softball Team. This dedicated group of girls had what it takes to reach the goal of a winning season. Fueled by positive motivation and many hours of practice, they were destined from the start to achieve the victories they did attain.

Seniors Allison Jones, Catherine Gilliam, and Natalie Furrow lead the team. Their experience and willingness to work encouraged the rest of the team to follow their example. "This season's team unity was strong because of the senior's leadership," said captain Catherine Gilliam. Playing on the team since her freshman year, she had earned the respect of the fans and the players through her pitching skills.

Another reason for the success of the team was Walter Pattus. He inspired the girls to play hard and earn their victories, engendering the players' respect. On or off the field, the girls encouraged each other one hundred percent. Practicing every day, they got to know each other. With sleepovers and team dinners, the players formed team unity. To get pumped before games, the girls exchanged secret pal gifts.

The J.V softball team hit the season off well, by winning the York Town tournment.

Besides the five returning sophomores, the rest of the team is fresh, including the two new coaches Andy Rhoyborla and Richard Johann . They practiced five days a week with two of the days as night practices, and three of the days after school till dark.

This season five captains Leigh Johann, Erin Wright, Elizabeth Meyer, Brittany Butler, and Maura Dola, led the team. Leigh Johann says " We had very good players this year.

Kendall Cooper said, "playing on the softball team was one of the most enjoyable and memorable experiences of my freshman year."

June 12, 2000

June 12, 2000 at seven o'clock in the evening, the event that the seniors had been waiting for throughout their entire lives finally approached them: Graduation. Seniors set free from high school could begin the rest of their lives, as they moved on to college or a full-time job. As in past years, graduation took place at Strawberry Hill Amphitheater at the State Fairgrounds. Braving an exceptionally hot evening, the candidates filed in two by two, women in white, men in red. Student speakers Yvonne Mowery, Adam Otstot, and Jessica Thomas spoke on common memories, the family of success, and the mandate to love one another. They gave way to adult speakers, the proclamation of graduation, and the distribution of degrees. Called one by one, each student walked across the stage as he or she received a diploma. At the close of the ceremony, caps flew into the air in the traditional manner as all bid good-bye the group that was the Class of 2000.

On a night when all the meteorogists had forcast terrible storms, no one could have predicted the magical atmosphere that would unfold. The meteorologists failed again on April 29, for Juniors and Seniors gathered throughout the neighborhoods for traditional pictures in their lawns. Up until Saturday morning, the Juniors still met to decorate for the massive evening, while the Seniors prepared for their last night. They called it, "Camelot by Candlelight." Initiated by the Senior court dance, the evening flew by as the band, Casper, provided the music. With an energy like no other, over eight hundred students joined in revelry and partied in the tradition that is prom. Some say they had chocolate and strawberries. Still others say even the bathrooms were decorated. The majority noticed neither as they made every second last. The evening wound down, and the limos departed as prom became another memory.

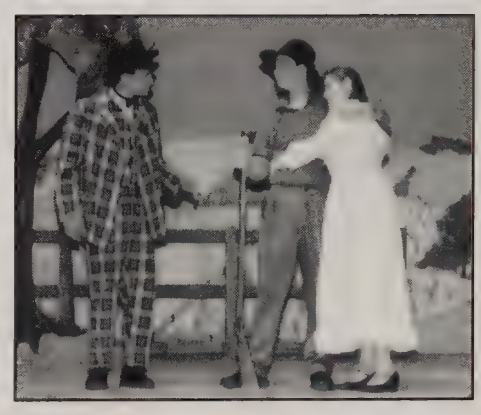
(right bottom) It's a scandal! Andrew Spanberger pleads for release from marriage to Lanaya Burnette as she embraces her lovable Pa, Stephen Howard.



"O-K-L-A-H-O-M-A!" With great pride the cast of the musical energetically spelled this state out for four solid nights. Thanks to the upbeat enthusiasm of the one hundred people involved with the show, whose jobs ranged from onstage work to behind-the-scenes magic to playing in the pit, every night sold out. Seniors Sophie Ballo, John Martin, and Tyler Rackley portrayed the lead characters, while Andrew Spanberger, Chase Kniffen, Lanaya Burnette, and Elaine Carrol composed the supporting line-up.

The energy displayed by the chorus each night kept the Godwin Theater buzzing every night. Despite the fact that the show Oklahoma! is over fifty years old, it continued to dazzle audiences this year with the inspiration of Mr. Damron, Ms. Matthews, and Amy Farley. Everything's up to date at Godwin High School, they went about as far as they could go!
